Art Unit: 3735

1. The following is a quotation of the first paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

The specification shall contain a written description of the invention, and of the manner and process of making and using it, in such full, clear, concise, and exact terms as to enable any person skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and use the same and shall set forth the best mode contemplated by the inventor of carrying out his invention.

2. Claims 1-4 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph, as failing to comply with the enablement requirement. The claim(s) contains subject matter which was not described in the specification in such a way as to enable one skilled in the art to which it pertains, or with which it is most nearly connected, to make and/or use the invention.

3. Claim 1 is directed to a device for enhancing an erection including a "malleable core material" that is wound into a coil and is claimed (claim 2) as being a single strand of copper wire. However it is unclear how the device would be able to work since the device is disclosed as being malleable, it appears that the shape of the device and therefore the ability to properly function would be changed in that the force that is exerted during use would provide sufficient force to change the shape of the malleable device. If the device is malleable enough for the user to use the base and sizer to establish the shape of the coil then the device would be malleable enough during use to provide a force that would be sufficient to alter the shape. It is unclear how the device could be malleable enough for the user to establish a shape and be firm enough in use such that the device would maintain its shape.

4. The following is a quotation of the second paragraph of 35 U.S.C. 112:

Art Unit: 3735

The specification shall conclude with one or more claims particularly pointing out and distinctly claiming the subject matter which the applicant regards as his invention.

5. Claim 4 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention.

Claim 4 appears to be directed to a combination of the erection enhancement device and a base and sizer that is used with the enhancement device. It doesn't appear that the limitations of claim 4 further limit the enhancement device itself.

6. The following is a quotation of the appropriate paragraphs of 35 U.S.C. 102 that form the basis for the rejections under this section made in this Office action:

A person shall be entitled to a patent unless –

(b) the invention was patented or described in a printed publication in this or a foreign country or in public use or on sale in this country, more than one year prior to the date of application for patent in the United States.

7. Claim 1 is rejected under 35 U.S.C. 102(b) as being anticipated by Weiss (5,873,813).

Weiss discloses what is considered to be a coil (18) which has an end having a "lever" (16) that is used to increase the inside diameter of the device when pressed.

8. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Art Unit: 3735

9. Claims 2-3 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Weiss.

While Weiss does not specifically teach the wire being copper or the coating being a polyvinyl coating, Weiss does teach that the wire is a resilient wire but will retain its original shape even after repeated use. Therefore a modification to use any known resilient material as long as it will retain its shape would have been an obvious modification. Also Weiss does teach the use of an elastomer coating about the device which would inherently include polyvinyl chloride.
